International Law for Humankind
Towards a New Jus Gentium
Second Revised Edition

by

Antônio Augusto Cançado Trindade

MARTINUS NIJHOFF PUBLISHERS
LEIDEN • BOSTON
Preface to the Second Edition

Glossary of Abbreviations

Introduction: Preliminary Considerations

Part I Prolegomena

Chapter I The Evolution towards a New Jus Gentium: The International Law for Humankind
I. The Historical Emergence of Jus Gentium 9
II. The Legacy of the Evolving Jus Gentium: Recta Ratio and the Pursuit of the Common Good 11
III. The Fragmentation of Jus Gentium into Jus inter Gentes 14
IV. The Fallacy of Voluntarist Positivism 16
V. International Law-Making and the Reconstruction of Jus Gentium 20
VI. International Law, Pluralism and Universalism 22
VII. The Identification of the Basic Feature of the New Jus Gentium 24
VIII. The Universalist Conception of International Law 27

Chapter II Time and Law Revisited: International Law and the Temporal Dimension
I. Introduction 31
II. Time and Law: Some Precisions and Lessons 31
III. The Incidence of the Temporal Dimension in International Law 34
IV. Time and International Law in Face of New Needs of Protection 36
V. The Presence of the Preventive Dimension in Domains of Protection 39
VI. The Expansion of Provisional Measures of Protection 41
VII. The Myopia of Political "Realism" 47
VIII. Concluding Observations 50
Part II  Foundations of International Law  53

Chapter III  Foundations of International Law: The Role and Importance of Its Basic Principles  55

I.  Introduction  55
II.  The Position and Role of the General Principles of Law  56
III.  The Fundamental Principles as Substratum of the Legal Order Itself  59
IV.  The Acknowledgement of General Principles of Law by the Statute of the Hague Court (PCIJ and ICJ)
    1.  General Principles of Law and the Quest for Justice  62
    2.  Principles of International Law as Pillars of the International Legal System  63
V.  The 1970 U.N. Declaration on Principles of International Law concerning Friendly Relations and Cooperation among States Revisited  65
    1.  General Considerations in Historical Perspective  65
    2.  The Formulation of the Principles of International Law  68
    3.  The 1970 Declaration of Principles as a Contribution to the Identification of the Opinio Juris Communis  74
VI.  Concluding Observations  77
    1.  The Sustained Validity of the Principles of International Law  77
    2.  The Projection in Time of the Evolving Principle of Self-Determination of Peoples  81
    3.  Principles of International Law, the Quest for Justice and the Universality of International Law  84

Chapter IV  The Primacy of International Law over Force  87

I.  Introduction  87
II.  The Crystallization and Continuing Validity of the Principle of Non-Use of Force  87
III.  The Primacy of Law over Force as a Cornerstone of Contemporary International Law  93
IV.  The Emerging Right to Humanitarian Assistance  97
V.  The Decivilizing Effects of Unwarranted Use of Force  101
VI.  Final Observations: The Primacy of Law over Force as an Imperative of Jus Cogens  106

Part III  Formation of International Law  111

Chapter V  Contemporary International Law-making: A Reassessment of the Theory of Formal “Sources” of International Law  113

I.  Introduction  113
II.  General Considerations on the Formal “Sources” of International Law  114
III.  The Formal “Sources” Enumerated in Article 38 of the ICJ Statute
    1.  International Custom  116
2. Treaties
3. General Principles of Law
4. Judicial and Arbitral Decisions
5. Doctrine
6. Equity

IV. The Formal "Sources" Not Enumerated in Article 38 of the ICJ Statute
   1. Unilateral Juridical Acts of States
   2. Resolutions of International Organizations

V. The Process of Formation of Contemporary International Law: From Consent to Consensus

VI. Opinio Juris beyond Custom: Its Wide Scope and Role in the Formation of Contemporary International Law

Chapter VI  The Material Source of International Law: Manifestations of the Universal Juridical Conscience

I. Introduction: Insufficiencies of the Formal "Sources" and the Relevance of the Material "Source" of International Law
II. Human Conscience, Recta Ratio, and the Universality of International Law
III. The Material Source of International Law Beyond State Legal Positivism
IV. invocation and Assertion of Juridical Conscience in International Treaties
V. Universal Juridical Conscience: The Historical Significance of the Martens Clause
VI. Invocation of Juridical Conscience in Judicial Proceedings and International Case-Law
VII. Invocation and Assertion of Juridical Conscience in International Legal Doctrine
VIII. Final Observations: The Achievements of International Law and the Universal Juridical Conscience

Part IV  Subjects of International Law

Chapter VII  States as Subjects of International Law and the Expansion of International Legal Personality

I. Introduction: International Legal Personality Expanded
II. Statehood and Recognition
III. Rights and Duties of States
IV. States and the Expansion of International Law
V. The Erosion of the Domestic Jurisdiction of States
VI. Final Observations: States and the New Horizons of International Legal Personality
Chapter VIII  International Organizations as Subjects of International Law  181
  I. Introduction: International Organizations and the Modification of the Structure of the International Legal Order  181
  II. International Organizations and the Ideal of the Realization of Justice  182
  III. International Organizations and the Expansion of International Legal Personality and Responsibility  185
  IV. The Expansion of International Law Itself by the Law of International Organizations
      1. International Organizations and the Ascertainment of Opinio Juris  191
      2. International Organizations and Treaty-Making Capacity  193
      3. Composition of International Organizations: Evolving Issues  194
      4. The Growth of Multilateralism and International Cooperation  196
  V. The Projected Reforms of the International Organizations, Particularly of the United Nations  200
  VI. Concluding Observations: The Contribution of International Organizations to the Progressive Development of International Law
       1. International Organizations: Contents and Legal Effects of Resolutions  206
       2. Responses to New Needs and Aspirations of the International Community  208

Chapter IX  The Legal Personality of the Individual as Subject of International Law  213
  I. Introduction  213
  II. The Individual as Subject of the Emerging Law of Nations  213
  III. The Attempted Exclusion of the Individual from the International Legal Order  217
  IV. The Individual's Presence and Participation in the International Legal Order  220
  V. The Rescue of the Individual as Subject of International Law  224
  VI. The Legal Personality of the Individual as a Response to a Need of the International Community  232
  VII. The Attribution of Duties to the Individual Directly by International Law  234
  VIII. Personality and Capacity: The Individual's Access to Justice at International Level  236
  IX. Final Observations: The Historical Significance of the International Subjectivity of the Individual  239
Chapter X  The Legal Capacity of the Individual as Subject of International Law

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Title</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I.</td>
<td>Introduction</td>
<td>243</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>II.</td>
<td>The International Legal Capacity of the Individual: Legal Foundations, Nature and Scope</td>
<td>243</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>1. Legal Foundations of the Access of the Human Being to International Tribunals</td>
<td>243</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>2. Juridical Nature and Scope of the Right of International Individual Petition</td>
<td>247</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>III.</td>
<td>The Emancipation of the Individual from His Own State</td>
<td>251</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>IV.</td>
<td>The Locus Standi of Individuals in the Procedures before International Human Rights Tribunals</td>
<td>255</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>1. Developments in the European System of Protection</td>
<td>256</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>2. Developments in the Inter-American System of Protection</td>
<td>261</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>V.</td>
<td>The Individual Right of Direct Access (Jus Standi) to International Human Rights Tribunals</td>
<td>264</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>1. Antecedents of Domestic Law: The Subjective Right, and the Direct Access (Jus Standi) to National Tribunals</td>
<td>266</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>2. Developments in International Law: The Direct Access (Jus Standi) to International Human Rights Tribunals</td>
<td>267</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>VI.</td>
<td>The Right of Access Lato Sensu of Individuals to International Justice</td>
<td>268</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>VII.</td>
<td>Concluding Observations</td>
<td>271</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Chapter XI  Humankind as a Subject of International Law

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Title</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I.</td>
<td>The Perception and Awareness of Common and Superior Interests of Humankind as Such</td>
<td>275</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>II.</td>
<td>The Fundamental Principle of Humanity</td>
<td>276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>III.</td>
<td>Humankind and Considerations of Humanity: A Conceptual Precision</td>
<td>280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>IV.</td>
<td>The Emergence of Humankind as a Subject of International Law</td>
<td>281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>V.</td>
<td>Legal Consequences of the Acknowledgement of Humankind as Subject of International Law</td>
<td>286</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>1. The Relevance of the Human Rights Framework</td>
<td>286</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>2. The Question of the Capacity to Act and Legal Representation</td>
<td>286</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Part V  Construction of the International Law for Humankind

Chapter XII  Conceptual Constructions: Jus Cogens and Obligations

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Title</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I.</td>
<td>Introduction: Fundamental Values of the International Community</td>
<td>291</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>II.</td>
<td>International Jus Cogens (Peremptory Norms of General International Law)</td>
<td>292</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>1. Emergence and Content of Jus Cogens</td>
<td>292</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>2. Evolving Scope of Jus Cogens</td>
<td>295</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>3. The Gradual Expansion of the Material Content of Jus Cogens</td>
<td>299</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
4. Jus Cogens as a Pillar of the New Jus Gentium, the International Law for Humankind 310

III. Obligations Erga Omnes of Protection 312
   1. Emergence and Scope of the Obligations 312
   2. Horizontal and Vertical Dimensions of the Obligations 317

IV. Obligations Erga Omnes and the Emergence of Actio Popularis 320

V. Concluding Observations 322

Chapter XIII  Conceptual Constructions: Common Heritage of Mankind and Common Concern of Mankind 327

I. Introduction 327

II. The Content and Significance of the Concept of Common Heritage of Mankind 327
   1. In the Domain of the International Law of Outer Space 329
   2. In the Domain of the Law of the Sea 331
   3. In the Domain of the International Law of Bioethics 336
   4. In the Domain of International Environmental Law 339

III. The Content and Significance of the Concept of Common Concern of Mankind 344
   1. The Emergence of the New Concept 344
   2. The Contribution of the New Concept 346
   3. The Co-existence between Common Heritage and Common Concern of Mankind, and Their Legacy to International Law 348

IV. Concluding Observations 350

Chapter XIV  Conceptual Constructions: The Right to Peace and the Right to Development 353

I. The Formulation of the Right to Peace in International Law 353
   1. Elements of the Right to Peace in International Law 353
   2. Recent Developments in the Formulation of the Right to Peace 355

II. The Formulation of the Right to Development in International Law 357
   1. Elements of the Right to Development in International Law 357
   2. Crystallization of the Right to Development as a Human Right 360
   3. The Conceptual Construction of Human Development 361
   4. Lessons from the Crystallization of the Right to Development 364

Chapter XV  Conceptual Constructions: Responsibility for International Crimes and Universal Jurisdiction 367

I. Introduction 367

II. The International Responsibility of the State and of the Individual: Recent Developments 367

III. State Responsibility, the Criminalization of Grave Violations of Human Rights and the Realization of Justice 369

IV. Complementarity between the International Responsibility of States and the International Criminal Responsibility of Individuals

V. Some Considerations on the Crime of State Revisited
   1. Configuration of the Crime of State
   2. The Crime of State in Relation to the Fundamental or Superior Interests of the International Community

VI. Juridical Consequences of the Crime of State

VII. The Principle of Universal Jurisdiction

VIII. Concluding Observations

Part VI Humanization of International Law

Chapter XVI Basic Considerations of Humanity in the Corpus Juris of International Law

I. Introduction: The Relevance of Basic Considerations of Humanity

II. The Omnipresence of Basic Considerations of Humanity
   1. Illustrations of International Case-Law
   2. Illustrations of International Legal Doctrine

III. Concluding Observations

Chapter XVII Basic Considerations of Humanity in Relation to Disarmament

I. Introduction

II. The Search for Peace: The Creation of Zones of Peace
   1. The Attainment of Peace and Human Security: A Permanent Goal
   2. The Initiative of Zones of Peace

III. The Establishment of Nuclear-Weapon-Free Zones

IV. The Endeavours towards General and Complete Disarmament

V. The Illegality of Nuclear Weapons

VI. Final Observations

Chapter XVIII Basic Considerations of Humanity in Relation to the Law of Treaties

I. Introduction

II. Considerations on the Interpretation of Treaties
   1. General Remarks
   2. Procedural Issues
   3. Substantive Law

III. Considerations on the Reservations to Treaties

IV. Considerations on the Denunciation of Treaties

V. Considerations on the Termination and Suspension of the Operation of Treaties

VI. Concluding Observations
Chapter XIX  Basic Considerations of Humanity in Relation to State Responsibility

I. State Responsibility and the General Interests of the International Community
   453
II. The Birth of the International Responsibility of States
    456
III. The Implementation of the International Responsibility of States
     462
IV. Serious Breaches of Obligations under Peremptory Norms of International Law
    464
V. Concluding Observations
   467

Chapter XX  Basic Considerations of Humanity In Relation to State Succession

I. Distinct Moments and Contexts of State Succession
   469
II. State Succession and the General Interests of the International Community
    471
III. State Succession and Continuity of Conventional Obligations Concerning Human Rights 472
IV. Concluding Observations
    476

Chapter XXI  Basic Considerations of Humanity in Relation to Territory

I. Prerequisites of Statehood Revisited
   479
II. Non-Self-Governing Territories
    482
III. Non-Militarization and Peaceful Uses of Antarctica
     484
IV. Territory and Zonal Initiatives for Peace
    486
V. Transitional Administration of Territory on Behalf of the International Community
   486
   1. The Case of Kosovo
      487
   2. The Case of East Timor
      489
   3. The Centrality of Protection of the Populations
      490

Chapter XXII  Basic Considerations of Humanity in Relation to Diplomatic and Consular Law

I. Introduction: Diplomatic and Consular Law beyond the Inter-State Outlook
   493
II. Diplomatic and Consular Law and Universal International Law
    495
III. The Right to Information on Consular Assistance in the Framework of the Guarantees of the Due Process of Law
     497
IV. The Humanization of Consular Law in Contemporary International Practice
    501
V. Concluding Observations
   507
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Chapter XXIII</th>
<th>Basic Considerations of Humanity in Relation to the Convergences of Regimes of Protection of the Human Person</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I.</td>
<td>The Consolidated Convergences between the Regimes of Protection of the Human Person</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>II.</td>
<td>The Intensified Convergences between the Regimes of Protection of the Human Person</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>III.</td>
<td>The Contemporary Phenomenon of Uprootedness as a Problem Pertaining to the Rights of the Human Person</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>IV.</td>
<td>The Character of Jus Cogens of the Principle of Non-Refoulement</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>V.</td>
<td>Concluding Observations</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
|               |                                                                                                          | 511
| Part VII      | Settlement of Disputes                                                                                   | 529
| Chapter XXIV  | Peaceful Settlement of International Disputes: Current State and Perspectives                           |
| I.            | Introduction: The Basic Problem of Compulsory Jurisdiction                                               |
| II.           | Interaction or Complementarity of Means of Peaceful Settlement                                            |
| III.          | Settlement of Disputes in Multilateral Treaties                                                         |
| IV.           | Current Developments: Fact-Finding and the Search for Justice and the Prevalence of the Rule of Law       |
| V.            | The Search for ad hoc Solutions                                                                       |
|               | 1.  The Experience of Contadora                                                                          |
|               | 2.  The Experience of Guarantor States                                                                   |
| VI.           | Endeavours of Systematization                                                                           |
| VII.          | Peaceful Settlement and the Renunciation of the Use of Force in International Relations                  |
| VIII.         | Peaceful Settlement beyond State Voluntarism: Some New Trends                                           |
| IX.           | Peaceful Settlement and the General Interests of the International Community                            |
| X.            | Concluding Observations                                                                                  | 531
| Chapter XXV   | International Rule of Law: The Need and Quest for International Compulsory Jurisdiction                  | 567
| I.            | International Rule of Law Beyond Peaceful Settlement of Disputes                                         |
| II.           | International Rule of Law: The Saga of the Optional Clause of Compulsory Jurisdiction                    |
|               | 1.  From the Professed Ideal to a Distorted Practice                                                     |
|               | 2.  International Compulsory Jurisdiction: Reflections Lex Lata                                       |
|               | 3.  International Compulsory Jurisdiction: Reflections De Lege Ferenda                                |
| III.          | The Recurring Need and Quest for Compulsory Jurisdiction                                                 |
| IV.           | International Rule of Law: The Growth of International Jurisdiction                                      | 568
|               |                                                                                                          | 572
|               |                                                                                                          | 579
|               |                                                                                                          | 582
|               |                                                                                                          | 586
Part VIII Perspectives

Chapter XXVI The Legacy of the Recent Cycle of World Conferences of the United Nations

I. Preliminary Observations: The International Legal Order in a World of Profound Contradictions
   1. A Transformation of Epoch
   2. The Spirit of Our Epoch
   3. Universalism and Cultural Diversity

II. The Legacy of the Cycle of U.N. World Conferences: Conditions of Life as a Matter of International Concern
   2. II World Conference on Human Rights (Vienna, 1993)
   4. World Summit for Social Development (Copenhagen, 1995)
   5. IV World Conference on Women (Beijing, 1995)
   8. World Conference against Racism, Racial Discrimination, Xenophobia and Related Intolerance (Durban, 2001)

III. The United Nations and the Rule of Law at National and International Levels

IV. Concluding Observations

Chapter XXVII Codification and Progressive Development of a Universal International Law

I. Introduction

II. Codification and Progressive Development in Historical Perspective

III. Codification and Progressive Development: Lessons and Projections

IV. Concluding Observations: Codification and Progressive Development Moved by the Universal Juridical Conscience

Chapter XXVIII Conclusions: International Law for Humankind – Towards a New Jus Gentium

I. The Process of Gradual Humanization of Public International Law

II. The New Jus Gentium: International Law for Humankind
   1. Foundations
   2. Subjects
   3. Conceptual Constructions
4. Basic Considerations of Humanity
   642
5. International Rule of Law
   644
III. Epilogue: A Message of Confidence
   645

Select Bibliography
   647

Table of Cases
   693

Index
   707