The Agenda allows for twelve more years to reach SDG 16. Legal standards set by the regional bodies such as the OAS, the EU and the Council of Europe help everyone concerned to understand key principles on equal access to justice. Comparing regional standards in the light of obligations under international law, as the 2030 Agenda requires, helps to provide information that will assist a rigorous follow up of the SDGs. In the end, what is needed is a common effort by all actors involved so that we can achieve our great ambition of realizing access to justice for all.
